

On the roman way Tongres-Arlon, the hamlet "Vervoz" gets its reputation from the discovery of an important roman "vicus" and from the attractive architectural ensemble and the countryside amenities, all of which are registered with the "Exceptional architectural heritage of Wallonia".

All the buildings along the main road (dated from XIIth to XIXth century) are constructed from limestone: the de Tornaco castel and its outbuildings, old farms, a forge and a neo-gothic chapel (1867), as well as the grave of the de Tornaco family which reflects in the pond.

The neighbouring village, Ocquier, also presents a beautiful architectural unity with the Val d'Or Castel, a XIth century farm and old post relay, the monks's court, old "prieuré" sanctuary of Stavelot Abbey and the historically recognized Saint-Remacle Roman Church.
